Moving Tips:

Make sure you write the room AND the contents on the exterior of the box.

Assign one or two people in the know to give out directions. These are the folks that are directing traffic and making sure boxes go where they are intended.

Invest in a secure lock box that you can place valuables like jewelry and heirlooms. Keep this with you or put away during the move.

Make a bag or box of must have items for moving day that is easily identifiable. A clear plastic box works great. This can contain all those things that you must have on a regular basis and can't afford to lose. This is your 'Essentials Box'!

Pack an overnight bag so you don't have to worry about digging through boxes to find your toothbrush and pajamas your first night in your new home.

When you pack your boxes, use different colors of duct tape to help identify where it goes. For example, red = master, blue = bathroom, black = kitchen.

Take pictures of your electronics before you unhook them to be sure you can hook them up quickly at your new home.

Packing your kitchen utensils can be a breeze by using saran wrap to cover them as is. Simply leave them in the tray and wrap them up.

Take a picture of all serial numbers and so on for important items that are insured. The last thing you want is to be caught without such information and needing it.

Level one, two, or three? Mark your boxes based on how quickly you anticipate needing the items within.

Order or make some stickers that have your new address on them and keep them in your wallet or purse. They will be life savers when you must begin changing your address with businesses and mail.
